

United Nations
Association of Australia

MEDIA PEACE AWARDS 2016

Radio News

WINNER

Jane Bardon
ABC News and Current Affairs
Indigenous Residents

After eight years working at ABC Darwin, Jane Bardon produced these two stories for the ABC Radio National Breakfast program to paint a broader picture of the dire situation of indigenous communities in the Northern Territory, while also celebrating the culture and connection to country of proud people working to bring up families in adverse conditions.

Jane's reports revealed attempts by multinational mining giant Glencore and government agencies to thwart the struggle by Borroloola's indigenous clans to get public health information about the pollution of their fish and waterways.

